Summary of the main activities of a research institute of the Slovak Academy of Sciences

Period: January 1, 2012 – December 31, 2015

1. Basic information on the institute:

1.1. Legal name and address

Historický ústav Slovenskej akadémie vied, (HÚ SAV) / Institute of History of Slovak Academy of Sciences, (IH SAS) /, P. O. Box 198, Klemensova 19, 814 99 Bratislava

1.2. URL of the institute web site

<http://www.history.sav.sk>

1.3. Executive body of the institute and its composition

Directoriat	Name	Age	Years in the position
Director	PhDr. Slavomír Michálek, DrSc.	54	4
Deputy director	PhDr. Edita Ivaničková, CSc.	67	4
Scientific secretary	Maroš Hertel, PhD.	44	4

1.4. Head of the Scientific Board

PhDr. Valerián Bystrický, DrSc. till 18.06.2014

PhDr. Miroslav Londák, DrSc. since 18.06.2014

1.5. Basic information on the research personnel

1.5.1. Number of employees with university degrees (PhD students included) engaged in research projects, their full time equivalent work capacity (FTE) in 2012, 2013, 2014, 2015, and average number of employees in the assessment period

	2012		2013		2014		2015		total

1.7. Mission Statement of the Institute as presented in the Foundation Charter

The Institute of History of the Slovak Academy of Sciences (IH SAS) is one of the Slovakia's eldest academic institutions. Being founded in 1943 as a part of the Slovak Academy of Sciences and Arts, in 1953 it belonged to the constituents of the new Slovak Academy of Sciences. Its mission had been the academic research on the Slovak national history. As in 1982 the IH SAS incorporated another academic institution – the Institute of History of European Socialist Countries of the SAS – its field of interest stretched also over the European and world history.

In all versions of the institute's Foundation Charter, including the last one (signed by the Presidium of the SAS on 11/09/2013), the ultimate scientific task of the IH SAS has been the basic research. In the development process of the – at the beginning still young – autonomous Slovak historiography, its content and methods underwent considerable changes. Till 1989, though under the regime – ideological control, the historians gathered a great amount of facts on the Slovak history from the early times up to the middle of the 20th century and brought them into the relation mostly with the history of neighboring countries.

After November 1989 the IH SAS had to rise to the occasion in two ways – it had to, first, re – evaluate previously earned knowledge and get rid of its old ideological deformations, second, to join the modern trends of the world historiography. The basic research utilized in particular the opening of archives at home and the free access to the archival and bibliographical sources in abroad. Great achievements have been earned in establishing personal and institutional contacts especially with western scientific communities and international organizations. One of the results was that the Slovak historiography stepped out from the shadow of the Czechoslovak (Czech) historical science and had been recognized abroad as an autonomous science.

In the next decades the IH SAS not only deepened and multiplied the scientific research and its outputs, but in the connection with the Central European, European and world development has manifested that the history of Slovakia and Slovaks had always been the integral part of the broader historical context. Simultaneously, the research started to cover more branches of the historical study – especially economic, social and cultural history. Mainly the younger generation of researchers enriched the scope of methodological approach from some other humanities and social sciences.

In the present version the Charter states that “the institute carries out the basic research in the field of humanities and social sciences with accentuation of the historical science; its scientific research is aimed at the fundamental issues of the Slovak history since the early times till nowadays and on its affiliation with the historical development of Europe”.

The research activities of the IH SAS represent the key part of the Slovak historiography. They are acquired in cooperation with various types of scientific institutions home and abroad, especially with colleges and universities. The scientific outputs of the IH SAS have the form of non – periodical and periodical (journals), printed and on – line texts. They serve the scientific community (historians and other specialists mainly from humanities and social sciences), the schools of all types, journalists and publicists from the print, electronic and Internet media, public administration (including expertizes for the central state institutions), non – governmental and other organizations.

Important mission of the institute are the popularization activities dedicated to forming the historical consciousness, cultural and educational niveau of the society. The IH SAS is also the constant part of the educational system, lately as an external institution for training the doctoral students (PhD). Since its beginnings it has performed the aspirant/doctoral student training activities (in the fields Slovak History, History of Sciences and Technique and from 1982 also World History) as an independent academic body. With the new College and University Act in 2002 lost the institute its independence and became the external institution responsible for the third level of high school education. Contemporary is the institute the partner of the Faculty of Arts of the Comenius University in Bratislava (in the fields Slovak History and World History) and of the Faculty of Humanities of M. Bell University in Banská Bystrica (in the field Slovak History).

1.8. Summary of R&D activity pursued by the institute during the assessment period in both national and international contexts, (recommended 5 pages, max. 10 pages)

During the last four-year period the paramount task of the IH SAS have been diversified scientific activities aimed at maintenance of its key position among the humanities and social sciences in Slovakia, as well as of its place as the Slovak center for the individual and institutional contacts and cooperation with foreign partners in the field of Slovak, Central European and European history. Notwithstanding the priority of basic research, the institute extended the forms and amount of popularizing the scientific knowledge among the broad public and earned in this field considerable results, too. In foreground of its activities has been also the promotion of the young generation, especially in form of training the doctoral students.

The IH SAS deals systematically with the study of the Slovak history from its beginnings up to the late 20th century and with the selected themes from the world history and the history of the sciences and technology. Continuous basic research mainly in the Slovak and foreign archives led to the extension of variety of studied themes transformed into the multitude of research projects with their manifold outputs. The extent of themes is visible mainly from the titles of projects obtained in competition from the Slovak scientific agencies. To identify their published outputs is possible through the bibliographic reference of each book or scientific paper.

The assessed period of the IH SAS research could be characterized by several common features:

1. Much more than in the previous periods the research on political, economic, social and cultural history of Slovakia and Slovaks has been carried out in Central European or European context; partially it was due also to the institute's research orientation in the field of world history. Among others it was the way of constructing the projects, e. g. State borders and identities in modern Slovak history in Central European context (APVV project), Slovak History in the History of Europe (SAS Centre of Excellence project), Slovaks and the forming of the modern nations in the Central Eastern- (South-) Eastern Europe: Identity, confessionism, myths (VEGA project), Czechoslovakia and the USA during 1948-1968 (VEGA project), Biography as the problem of historiography: Theory, interpretation and writing the biographies in Slovak, Czech and French historiography (VEGA project), Formation of Foreign Policy Thinking of Slovak Political Elites and Society during 1918-1939 (VEGA project) etc. Even more visible this contextual and comparative approach has been with institute's international conferences and especially in published (or on-line) outputs. The concrete examples, please, see the Quest, parts 2.1.2 – 4; 2.3.2 – 3; and at the website <http://www.history.sav.sk>.

2. An interdisciplinary approach towards the themes has been intensified. The research crossed more and more the borders of the “pure” historiography and to deal with historical phenomena it has used also the methods of other humanities and social sciences. To name some of interdisciplinary research themes – Castles in Slovakia: Interdisciplinary cross-sectional view on the castle phenomenon (SAS Centre of Excellence project), Continuities and discontinuities of political and social elites in Slovakia in 19th and 20th centuries (APVV project), History of the chemical industry in Slovakia (VEGA project), The man and the animal world in Middle Ages (VEGA project), Societal context of environment protection in Slovakia from Industrial Revolution to WWII (VEGA project), Social and demographic development in Middle Ages Slovakia (VEGA project). The first step has been also done in crossing the lines of humanities and social sciences – the IH SAS cooperated with the Institute of Zoology SAS on the project supported by EU Structural Funds called Research and development of new biotherapeutic methods and their use with treatment of some serious genetopathies, sub-theme Ethnographic and historical research. Other individual and collective outputs see, please, at the website <http://www.history.sav.sk>.

3. Besides the traditional mapping of the national history there have been more visible basic research priorities.

One of them was the longtime cross-sectional Synthesis of the Slovak History. In assessed period continued the systematic study of the 20th and 19th centuries, which led to publishing the next two volumes dealing with the interwar period (Eds. B. Ferencuhová, M. Zemko) and during the WWII (Eds. K. Mešková-Hradská, I. Kamenec). As the background for the coming four volumes of 19th century synthesis the projects participants (APVV project, two VEGA projects) wrote a considerable amount of monographs (speaking nothing of numerous scientific papers).

Another major theme on the rise has been the economic history. In assessed period the research concentrated mainly on the 19th and 20th centuries and resulted in monographs dealing either with complex problems or with partial issues (among its authors e.g. Ľ. Hallon, M. Sabol, M. Londák, M. Fabricius, R. Holec).

On the way to form a specialized team has been the study of the history of sciences, especially the history of historiography, where the IH SAS plays the pioneer role. Beside the Modern Times historiography (A. Hudek) started also the research on conceptions of Early Modern historiography (E. Frimová).

Other two priorities of IH SAS research – social history and cultural history – were in assessed period not new, but still valid. The numerous outputs dealing cross centuries with these phenomena had shown that to grasp the problems in their complexity, variability and contextual bindings still requires systematic and long-lasting study.

The same approach should be applied on publishing the documents. During the last four-year period continued the cooperation of IH SAS at the edition of documents Pramene k dejinám Slovenska a Slovákov [Sources to History of Slovakia and Slovaks] (Vols. XI a, XII a, XII b, XIII a) and the institute published another four specialized editions (Eds. D. Segeš, M. Hertel, V. Bystrický, M. Schvarc, Ľ. Hallon).

Whereas the published documents serve mainly the specialists, for the wider public is more relevant the realization of another institute's priority – publishing the two-volume chronology of the Slovak history (History in Data, Data in History, Eds. V. Bystrický, V. Dangl, 2014).

From the short outline of the IH SAS scientific priorities may be seen, that it is the institution engaged in the national (regional) oriented research whose outputs are primarily devoted to the citizens of Slovakia, their learning about history, extending their historical consciousness and deepening their cultural and civilizing level. The key position of IH SAS in the national oriented research with its Central European and European connotations makes the institute interesting for the partners in outland, too. Especially for those who are dealing with history of this region and its nations, or with general historical phenomena. The notable status of IH SAS reflects the number of international projects in which its scientists have taken part. To name some of them – European National Museums: Identity policy, the use of the past and the European citizen (EUNAMUS, 7 FP EU, 2010-2013, investigator A. Hudek), Reassembling the Republic of Letters, 1500-1800: A digital framework for multi-lateral collaboration on Europe's intellectual history (COST, 2015-2018, work package leader E. Kowalská).

The IH SAS got four project in frame of Inter-Academic Agreements, e. g. Ecriture historique de la biographie / Writing of historical biographies (SAS – CNRS 2011-2012, principal investigator B. Ferenčuhová) or Construction of the French knowledge about Central Europe (SAS – CNRS 2013-2014, principal investigator B. Ferenčuhová). It had been the principal investigator of six International Visegrad Fund (IVF) projects, too. In other multilateral projects the institute participated on e.g. – Agrarismus in Ostmitteleuropa 1890-1950 (project of Europa-Universität Viadrina, Frankfurt an der Oder, 2011-2013, investigator R. Holec) and Das östliche Europa in transnationaler Perspektive (Project of Geisteswissenschaftliches Zentrum Ostmitteleuropa, Universität Leipzig, 2010-2012, investigator D. Kováč). At about 20 years is running the cooperation of the IH SAS Library with the international bibliographies, which are thus continually supplied by the published results of the Slovak historical science (International Bibliography of Historical Sciences, project of Comité international des sciences historique, Lausanne – Paris, since 1998; Bibliographie zur Landesgeschichte Ostmitteleuropas, project of Herder Institut Marburg, since 1997; International Medieval Bibliography for the Study of the Middle Ages 450-1500, project of School of History of the University of Leeds, since 1991; Bibliography of the History of the Czech Lands and Slovakia, IH SAS and IH AS of Czech Republic, since 2015).

The institute's position abroad more than on international projects still depends on activities of the individual researchers. Yet, they do not represent only their own science findings, but speak for their home research teams and their institute, too. Already many years has lasted the participation of the IH SAS scientists on the international conferences (workshops etc.) high; and not only on international events at home or in the Czech Republic, but in other foreign countries as well (in 2012-2015 together 493 presentations). The Slovak historiography in assessed period has been for instance more visible on such global platforms of historians as are the world congresses – e.g. at the XXII. International Congress of Historical Sciences (21-30/08/2015 in Jinan, China) read their papers four institute's scientists (B. Ferenčuhová, D. Kováč, M. Hanula, M. Schvarc); at the XVII. World Economic History Congress (4/08/2015 in Kyoto, Japan) delivered in the section Diversity and Changes in Role of the Economic Elites in Politics in the 19th and 20th Centuries his paper R. Holec, who was in the same time the main organizer of this section.

The asset of these activities does not depend only on presentation of papers. For the IH SAS it is important that in published papers from these conferences appear the Slovak science findings in various foreign languages (mostly in English). It is a small compensation for the still unsatisfactory publishing of the institute's outputs in English (or other world languages), which is caused by lacking in the financial means for this purpose.

In this context higher quality obtained the Slovak historiography dominating Historický časopis (Historical Journal) noted in Current Contents database – its Nr 5 published in English became the regular part of the journal yearly edition. The border crossing is also the journal established by the institute in cooperation with the Hungarian colleagues in the assessed period – KOR/RIDOR: szlovák-magyar történeti folyóirat: slovensko-maďarský historický časopis (KOR/RIDOR: Slovak-Hungarian Historical Journal). Good visit rate (also from abroad) has earned during the last four years Forum historiae: odborný internetový časopis pre históriu a príbuzné spoločenské vedy (Forum Historiae: expert internet journal for history and related humanities). And still highly praised popular journal, though among broad public reading Slovak, has remained História: revue o dejinách spoločnosti (History: Revue on the History of Society).

The picture of the institute's international and national position could not be complete without mentioning the responses to the works of IH SAS scientists. In assessed period the institute recorded in all categories 5 141 citations and 224 reviews on their published texts.

To the forms of honoring the scientific erudition of the IH SAS researchers belongs also their membership in scientific and professional boards and bodies home and abroad. As members were 31 scientists engaged in 57 international bodies. Much more of them have been active in national organizations.

Special chapter create the distinctions earned for the scientific activities: with the prices from abroad were awarded 11 IH SAS scientists, among them B. Ferenčuhová with Officier dans l'Ordre des Palmes académiques (award of the French Republic government); 41 researchers earned the prices in Slovakia.

An important part of the institute's scientific profile with the long-years tradition belongs to the educational activities. Every year the institute is training into the 16 internal doctoral students (quota allocated by the Presidium of SAS) and unlimited number of external doctoral students. As an external institution for training the doctoral students (PhD) is the contracted partner of the Faculty of Arts of Comenius University in Bratislava and of the Faculty of Humanities of M. Bell University in Banská Bystrica. Because the doctoral students are the integral part of the scientific life of the institute, their education and evaluation is followed up very consistently. Only the best of them may count on being adopted as postdoctoral researcher among the institute's staff. But in the assessed period the IH SAS has had with this canon considerable problem – lacking in the financial means for this purpose. Reducing the wage funds from the Ministry of Finance forced the institute to employ fewer post-doctoral researchers, than its extension of the basic research has required. Even this would not have been possible without the help of Štefan Schwarz Fund of SAS, which was used by almost all post-doctoral institute's researchers (7).

On the contrary, another activity of the IH SAS has increased – the application of the basic research results in the societal praxis. There are many forms of it, which the institute has realized. First, there is a considerable part of its researchers, who disseminate the earned knowledge as the university or college teachers. Another form has been the elaboration of expertizes for the central state or public institutions. But the most visible and manifold are still the various popular science activities addressing the wide parts of society. Though, with financial problems, the IH SAS still publishes the popularizing journal História: revue o dejinách spoločnosti (History: Revue on the History of Society). The scientific staff including the doctoral students has been invited to write the newspaper, journal or internet articles, to give their opinion in electronic media (TV, radio broadcasts), to speak at various public actions. They are in demand for creating exhibition scenarios, for consulting documentary films etc. In popularization the IH SAS researchers are the most productive professional historians.

Fruitfulness of the IH SAS is based upon the symbiotic cooperation between its researchers and the institute management. The open and serious communication among them has helped to solve problems during the whole assessed period. And they were not few – e.g. the reduced budget did not allow to award the excellent scientists with extra financial bonus, On the other hand no written monograph remained unpublished, the doctoral students and young scientists have been encouraged to apply for international scholarships, etc.

2. Partial indicators of main activities:

2.1. Research output

2.1.1. Principal types of research output of the institute: basic research/applied research, international/regional (ratios in percentage) basic research/applied research 90/10

international/regional 30/70

2.1.2 List of selected publications documenting the most important results of basic research. The total number of publications listed for the assessment period should not exceed the average number of employees with university degrees engaged in research projects. The principal research outputs (max. 5, including Digital Object Identifier – DOI) should be underlined

2.1.5. List of other scientific outputs specifically important for the institute, max. 10 items

1. Slavomír Michálek authored the exhibition Czechoslovakia and Establishment of the United Nations (UN), which was created in the cooperation with the Slovak Ministry of Foreign Affairs for the 70th anniversary of the UN creation. It was opened by Secretary-General of the United Nations Ban Ki-moon and the Slovak Foreign Minister Miroslav Lajčák on October 19, 2015.
2. Participation at the 22. World History Congress in Jinan (China) August 23 – 29, 2015:
FERENČUHOVÁ, Bohumila. La Petite Entente – nouvel acteur dans les relations internationales dans l'entre-deux-guerres : un échec de l'Europe démocratique? V rámci kolokvia CHIR Old and New Players – Histories of International Relations (XIX – XXI Centuries). Session 4 – Regional Approaches: Europe, Mediterranean, Latin America.
KOVÁČ, Dušan. The Vienna Congress 1815 and the „Spring of Nations“ in Central Europe.
HANULA Matej – SCVARC, Michal. »Rückführung Südost«. Evacuation of German Population from Slovakia 1944/1945 as Part of a Nazi »Volkstumspolitik« in Southeastern Europe during the Final Phase of World War II.
3. Roman Holec was the main organizer of the Panel S20072 Diversity and Changes in Role of the Economic Elites in Politics in the 19th and 20th Centuries at the XVII. World Economic History Congress which took place in Kyoto (Japan) on August 4, 2015.
4. Conference and a book about the life and political career of Gustáv Husák (the last president of communist Czechoslovakia). The conference took place on May 29 – 30 2013 in Prague in the former building of the Czechoslovak Federal Assembly. It was organized by the Institute of History of SAS (Slavomír Michálek and Miroslav Londák), The Institute for the Study of Totalitarian Regimes in Prague and the National Museum of the Czech Republic. Conference was attended by renowned historians from Slovakia, Czech Republic, Hungary and Russia and raised significant interest of the media and the general public.
The outcome of the conference was a book: MICHÁLEK, Slavomír – LONDÁK, Miroslav. Gustáv Husák: moc politiky – politik moci [Gustáv Husák The power of Politics – the Politician of Power]. Bratislava: Veda : Historický ústav SAV, 2013. It received the Awards of Literary Fund in Slovakia and the Egon Erwin Kisch Award in the Czech Republic.
5. Institute of History (main organizer Adam Hudek), together with the Slovak Institute in Paris and Ballassi (Hungarian) Institute in Paris organized a conference introducing the Slovak National Uprising from 1944 to the French audience (both academic and non-academic). Conference was attended by experts from Slovakia, Czech Republic, Hungary, Poland and France. It took place in Paris on November 7 – 11, 2014.
6. Two volumes of Chronology of history of Slovakia and the Slovaks: from the oldest time till present. History in data, data in history from 2014, prepared by: DANGL, Vojtech – BYSTRICKÝ, Valerián – LUKAČKA, Ján – ČIČAJ, Viliam – KOHÚTOVÁ, Mária – MACHO, Peter – PODRIMAVSKÝ, Milan – DUDEKOVÁ, Gabriela – BARTLOVÁ, Alena – KÁZMEROVÁ, Ľubica – CSÉFALVAY, František – PEŠEK, Jan – BARNOVSKÝ, Michal – MICHÁLEK, Slavomír – ZAVACKÁ, Marína – JAKEŠOVÁ, Elena – HALLON, Ľudovít – MOROVICS, Miroslav Tibor – TURČAN, Vladimír.
More than 2000 pages long, the Chronology is a unique publication. It covers political, economic, cultural, religious, military, diplomatic, social, every-day and demographic history, as well as history of medicine, science and technology, sport and ecology. It also positions territory of Slovakia and its inhabitants in the broader international context. The two volume book is fully comparable with the similar, modern chronologies published in the other European countries and is popular both among scholars and the general public.

7. Institute of History significantly participated on the scholarly and popular activities in the framework of The Year of Ľudovít Štúr declared by the Government of the Slovak Republic at the 200th anniversary of birth of this personality. IH SAS organized an international conference about Štúr's life and work on May 12 – 13, 2015. Main outcome of this conference was a book, edited by Peter Macho and Daniela Kodajová: Ľudovít Štúr na hranici dvoch vekov [Ľudovít Štúr at the Border of Two Ages: Life, Work and Time Period versus Historical Memory]. Bratislava : VEDA : Historický ústav SAV, 2015.

The researchers from the institute (D. Kodajová, P. Šoltés, P. Macho, M. Bednárová, E. Kowalská, D. Kováč) took part also on the activities dealing with Štúr's anniversary, organized by the other organizations (museums, universities and cultural institutions). They also cooperated with the mass media and worked as experts during the preparation of films and TV or Radio programs dedicated to Ľudovít Štúr and his era.

PhD program at the IH SAS

PhD studies at the IH SAS consists form several forms of education. Four basic forms are:

1. study and research under the tutorship of supervisor (regular weekly consultations between student and supervisor and with other researchers from IH SAS);
2. academic formation in the environment of the Institute through the participation at scholarly projects and events (conferences, workshops and colloquiums)
3. active support from the IH SAS for participation at doctoral scholarships and long – term exchange research fellowships
4. course of PhD colloquiums focused on methodology of historiographical research and the theory of history

This course of PhD colloquiums is comprised form lectures, colloquiums and interactive workshops. Critical evaluation of the PhD projects of the 1st year students and the methodological/theoretical chapters of the (upcoming) PhD thesis of the 2nd year students is also part of this intensive PhD program.

Cumulative colloquiums represent an all – day activity which take place in three days and have their principal topic (every day of the colloquium is focused on a special topic – see the list below). Historians and researchers from other related disciplines of social sciences or humanities give lectures on those topics, so there is and increased focus on interdisciplinary character of the colloquiums. During two years (that is four semesters) PhD students are instructed on 8 basic cross – sectional topics of historical research, while the main goal is to broaden their abilities to gain pieces of knowledge, theories and methodologies from other humanities and social sciences.

SEMESTER I

1. Nationalism and Historiography – Problematic Aspects of the Traditional Genres of National Historiographies

- A) What is nationalism? (Overview of concepts and theories.)
- B) Historians as “scholarly” legitimators and proponents of nationalism.
- C) Methods of critical study of nationalism as historical phenomenon. How to take measures against “methodological nationalism” – the elimination of the possible formative influences of nationalist ideologies and discourses in the work of a historian.

2. Memory, Collective Memory, Politics of Memory and the Professional Historiographies

- A) Overview of concepts and theories of collective memory and politics of memory.
- B) Historians as the authors of history narratives used and abused in the policies of memory. Is historiography a discipline doomed to be permanently abused by the holders of power?
- C) Methods of critical study of the collective memory, politics of memory, “invention of traditions” (E. Hobsbawm et al.) as a historical phenomenon.

SEMESTER II

3. Discourse and Discourse Analyses

- A) What is discourse? Schools of discourse analyses. (Overview of concepts, theories and methods.)
- B) History as a particular form of discourse and historians as participants in discourses.

2.6. Social impact

2.6.1. List of the most important results of applied research projects. Max. 10 items

1. Participation on the international bibliography project of historical sciences: International bibliography of historical sciences. Vol. 76, 77, 78 79. (2007, 2008, 2009, 2010). Edited by Massimo Mastrogregori; contributing editors Slovakia Alžbeta Sedliaková [et al.]. Munchen: K.G. Saur, 2012, 2013, 2014, 2015. ISSN 0074-2015.
2. Participation on international bibliography project of medieval studies works: International Medieval Bibliography 300 – 1500. Multidisciplinary bibliography of the Middle Ages. Vol. 44-47, 2010 – 2013./ editor Alan V. Murray; contributors

Maria Ďurkova [et al.]. Brepols: International Medieval Institute University of Leeds, 2012 – 2015.

Both projects are part of the creation and supplementing the global database of the historical production. In the IH SAS these projects are conducted by its library, which is preserving the information of the bibliographical production of the Institute whole Slovak historiography, sending it to the other institutes, while receiving similar data from them. In this sense, the IH SAS is taking part in the creation of the compendious database of the historical production, which is open for the global scholar and non-scholar community.

3. JANURA, Tomáš. Historical architectonic research carried out for the Monument Board of the Slovak Republic (2015 – Krásnohorské Podhradie, Krásna Hôrka castle, Lietava castle, Muráň castle, Slanec castle; 2014 – church in Mníchova Lehota, Žilina castle in the Budatín city neighbourhood; 2013 Slanec castle, Teplička nad Váhom mansion; 2012 – mansion and park in Kočovce, mansion and park in Pruské, Teplička nad Váhom mansion, Blatnica castle).
By such expertise the IH SAS is involved in the preservation of the cultural and historical heritage of Slovakia, which addressees the Slovak and international visitors. Such expert activities are one the main form of the applied research of the IH SAS.
4. KOLLÁROVÁ, Ivona. Elaboration of expertise and expert opinion for the Regional Directorate of the Police Force in Trenčín, Department of Criminal Police – determination of the value of historical manuscripts. (2015)
5. KOLLÁROVÁ, Ivona. Elaboration of expert opinion for the County Court in Martin dealing with the property rights to the land in the Kremnica town territory. (2015)
The role of experts for the police and courts is a form of the utilizing the knowledge of historian in the IH SAS. The expert knowledge of the historians is indispensable in resolving the complicated law-suits based on the historical documents.
6. ROGULOVÁ, Jaroslava. Expertise and expert opinions for the Ministry of Interior of the Slovak Republic, Presidium of the Police Force, Criminal Police Office, Department of Extremism and Spectator Violence and for Regional Directorates of the Police Force in Trenčín and Trnava about the problem of support and propaganda of the groups aimed at suppressing basic human rights and liberties and about the symbols of radical right extremism (2012 – 2015).

The expert opinions of the historians dealing with the with 20th century history are crucial in the cases concerning (mostly) the manifestation of the far right extremism in Slovakia. With the rise of extreme right in the past years this is the most common instance when the police or office of the prosecutor resorts to the historians. The researchers of the IH SAS are not only cooperating in the individual cases, but are also organising seminars and training for the police forces and prosecutors aimed to help them to better identify the extreme right symbols and other manifestations which are banned by the law.

2.6.2. List of the most important studies commissioned for the decision – making authorities, the government and NGOs, international and foreign institutes

During the assessed period the IH SAS produced all together 54 expertises for the above mentioned authorities and organisations. The most important were:

2.6.3. List of contracts and research projects with industrial and other commercial partners, incl. revenues

2.6.4. List of licences sold abroad and in Slovakia, incl. revenues

2.6.5. List of most important social discourses under the leadership or with significant participation of the institute (max. 10 items)

1. In 2014, the researchers of IH SAS participated at the preparation and organization of lecture series, conferences and the press and radio presentations dedicated to the topic World War I in Memory and its Reflections. Thanks to those events and the parallel running project organized by the Association of Museums in Slovakia under the title Museum in Time, Time in Museum. The Story of an Object: 1914 it was possible to increase the interest of public and mass media about World War I and about the memory on the Great War.
2. As part of the events of the Ľudovít Štúr's year declared by the government of the Slovak Republic, the researchers from IH SAS expertly prepared and organized (together with the Department director of University Library in Bratislava) international scientific conference Ľudovít Štúr and the Phenomenon of his Time Period. Through their media presentations and lectures they significantly participated at the societal discussion about Štúr's personality.
3. The 70th anniversary of the Slovak National Uprising increased the interest of the professional community of historians, political circles and also broader public about this historical event. IH SAS participated significantly at the nationwide discussion about the interpretation and re-interpretation of this top stage of the anti-fascist resistance in Slovakia in broader context as an important and respected element of the European anti-fascist resistance.
4. IH SAS in co-operation with delegates from all departments of history at Slovak universities co-organized conference Profile of a History Graduate: Curricular Programs and the Readiness of the History Graduates for Praxis. It resulted in an opening of expert and nationwide discussion about the curricular programs of the university departments of history.
5. In 2014 and 2015, IH SAS participated at the Vrba-Wetzler Memorial project. The project includes also March in the paths of the heroes from Auschwitz to Žilina. Among other events people who are interested can find there multiple-day discussions and expert colloquiums dedicated to the holocaust history and the present day societal challenges including the increase of extremism and the terrorist threats in Europe. More information at www.vrbawetzler.eu.
6. IH SAS researchers intensively participated at the nationwide discussion stirred up by the efforts of certain political groups and extremist mass media (with right or left orientation) to politically rehabilitate and re-interpret some political protagonists from the past. The reaction from the historians of IH SAS to the efforts to make excuses for their activities and to glorify politicians active during the period of “brown” and “red” totalitarian regimes under the leadership of the Hlinka's Slovak Peoples party resp. the Communist Party (Ferdinand Ďurčanský, Jozef Tiso, Gustáv Husák, Vasil' Biľak) was to emphasize the need for critical reflexion of the Slovak national and state history.
7. Editorial team of the internet journal Forum Historiae introduced in the beginning of 2012 to public the monothematic issue focused on the corruption in the history of Slovakia in the context of its development within the framework of previous state forms. They co-operated on this project with the experts from Transparency International Slovakia, political scientists and sociologists. The issue was received with great interest from both expert and non-professional public. Researchers from IH SAS have been regularly invited to mass media where they intensively participated on the public discussion on the theme which belonged during the evaluated period thanks to a large number of corruption scandals among publicly and politically very sensitive topics. At the end of 2015 IH SAS published a collective monograph Korupcia [Corruption] which was, once again, received with a significant medial interest.

- Supplementary information and/or comments on popularisation activities, max. 300 words

The Institute publishes three journals with different purposes. For the scientific community of historians and other researchers in humanities it publishes Historický časopis (4 issues per year and an English Supplement), internet scholarly and interdisciplinary journal Forum Historiae (2 issues) and for a broader public the popularising journal Historia revue (6 issues per year). Researchers from the Institute administrate internet portal Forum Historiae where news and notices about the activities of the Institute are published and non – commercial monographs, collections of papers and journals are available for professional and lay public in an electric form. During 2012 – 2015 an average of 80.000 people per year had visited the web pages which promote and popularise the activities of the Institute.

Researchers of the Institute are regular guests in the discussions and other educative broadcasts of the public Slovak TV and radio. During the Year of Ľudovít Štúr which was declared by the government, the employees of the Institute took part in making of a documentary movie, exhibitions, conference and more than dozen radio broadcasts. Lectures, radio broadcasts and newspaper articles promoted current state of historical knowledge at the anniversaries of the World War I, Slovak National Uprising, about the tragic events of Holocaust and other socially relevant themes. During 2012 – 2015, the Institute had organized, co – organized or participated on several significant exhibitions. It included exhibitions The Formation of the U.N. and Czechoslovakia (2015) and Slovaks and Slovakia in the Great War (2014) prepared in cooperation with the Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

The institute serves as an expert guarantor and co – author of the History Olympics which has been since 2008 promoted by the Ministry of Educations, Science, Research and Sport for the pupils of the 2nd level of primary schools and for students of grammar schools.

IH SAS organizes once in a month regular scholarly and informational lectures ending with discussions. At those events, doctoral students and researchers from Slovakia and also from abroad present the latest results of their basic research. The lectures are open for public – for people interested in history and related humanities and social sciences, for students of all school levels and the scholarly community in general.

Žofia Lysá, 2012 – 2015

Pavol Hudáček, 2013 – 2017

Ján Hlavinka, 2014 – 2017

2.8.3. Important research infrastructure (max. 2 pages)

The IH SAS management modifies and supplements regularly the technical equipment of the workplace which is necessary for quality and successful scientific research. It provides the purchase of new personal computers with accessories, notebooks, digital cameras, printers, scanners and storage devices for the processed data. Technical equipment is used outside the institute for the data retrieval in domestic and foreign archives (digital cameras, notebooks, storage devices) and for data processing inside the working place.

Considering the broadening scale of institute's technical equipment it is necessary to gradually upgrade the central back up data server and its corresponding computer network.

Purchase and reparation of the technical equipment is financed with the funds from the Slovak projects which are continuously acquired by the Institute. Each of institute's scientists and staff members is a part of some project. In this way the needs of every project participant are permanently satiated.

The IH SAS does not possess any special technical equipment to share it with other institutes or organizations.

2.8.4. Description of how the results and suggestions of the previous assessment were taken into account

The protocol from the previous assessment of IH SAS (12/10/2012) states that the institute's percentage evaluation is 88,41 % and is in category "A".

In comparison with other 21 institutes of humanities and social sciences SAS the IH SAS holds the position Nr 1.

Suggestions of the previous assessment:

1. To solve the photographic documentation of the IH SAS in form of digitalization.
2. In official statements of scientific outputs more precisely include them in corresponding categories.
3. To be more precise in harmonization of formal and real accord of the outputs with the project themes.
4. To concentrate on obtaining the international projects.

Position of IH SAS:

1. The digitalization of the rich historical documentation of IH SAS needs a great amount of financial means. The institute was not able to summon them neither by the help of international nor national projects. The task will be dealt with also in the next period.
2. Since October 2012 the new official regulations adjusted the inexplicit parts of the outputs categorization. The statement of scientific outputs prepared by IH SAS for this assessment is in accord with these regulations.
3. The IH SAS management has cared for that in the ongoing projects; not only object matter but also the title should harmonize with the project theme.
4. The half of the institute's ongoing international projects is new. Striving for bigger project namely in the frame of Horizon 2020, ESF or ERC will continue in the next period, too.

- Supplementary information and/or comments on management, research infrastructure, and trends in personnel development

The elections in May 2014 acknowledged in the position of Director of IH SAS PhDr. Slavomír Michálek, DrSc. In office stayed the Vice-Director PhDr. Edita Ivaničková, CSc. and scientific secretary Mgr. Maroš Hertel, PhD.

The ongoing management confirmed the previous trend and continued in the transfer of the management and organizational tasks on the middle-aged and younger generation. At the end of the fourth year has been discussed and confirmed the exchange in position of Vice-Director for a younger colleague and the new elections for the heads of institute's departments (both in 2016).

In assessed period the personnel development grew rapidly – a strong group of fortyish scientists (young researchers) qualified themselves as senior researchers (in four years there were 10 of them); three scientists obtained the academic degree DrSc/Prof. Simultaneously continued also the generation exchange of the institute's scientific staff. To make it possible in the financially complicated situation, part of the older, still productive generation has been employed in the part-time jobs.

3. Research strategy and future development of the institute for the next five years (2016 – 2020) (Recommended 3 pages, max. 5 pages)

3.1. Present state of the art in both the national and the international contexts

Since being present at the international professional stage, the Slovak historiography has received recognition as an independent subject, not only reacting to the results of foreign research but significantly co-determining research topics in this field, and their assessment results relating mainly to Europe, Central Europe and thereby also to Slovakia.

The objective and importance of the Institute of History SAS are un-substitutable in the latest development of Slovak historiography. Its key position from the perspective of systematic basic research, extensive range of research topics, amount of projects and published outputs and, last but not least, knowledge of its scientists has significantly contributed to quality development and increase in significance of historical science in Slovakia.

This position, however, is not without problems and is not given to the institute forever. To open the old and new arriving problems and to search for relevant solutions to them is the base upon which the long-lasting strategy of the IH SAS is built.

3.2. Research strategy of the institute in the national and the international contexts, objectives and methods

The objective of the long-term research and development concept of the IH SAS is a modern and transparently functioning institute, with clearly defined scientific objectives and suitable economic background. The primary issue is the effort to build a dynamic workplace, to develop its scientific credibility in Slovakia and within the European science, to connect the institute more significantly to foreign historiographies and their institutions, to create more efficiently managed workplace with maximum usage of employee's scientific potential and with emphasis on education of young generation of historians. One part of the concept is to make the objective findings in national and general history available for the general public through publishing results of basic research and involvement in the public professional discussion, and hereby help the development of demythologized national consciousness and fellowship to European historical traditions.

These IH SAS strategic goals in principle correspond with the basic goals of the SAS transformation, which is on the run. Whether they will correspond also with its final results in form of the new face of SAS and its institutes we may only presume, but not know it for certain. The management of the IH SAS must therefore continue with professional and realistic arguments in entering into the discussions, especially about the future of the humanities and social sciences; and these discussions should take place not only on the academic level, but on the level of the state science policy, too. This gilt not only for realization of science conceptions in praxis, but with the same imperativeness also for the state funding of the science in the necessary extent.

The three main areas will be dominant for the IH SAS in the next five years period: scientific research and its application; personnel policy; material background.

1. All the basic research on the ongoing and new themes should be realized in the frames of scientific projects. The institute is entering the new assessment period with one SAS Center of Excellency project, 3 APVV projects and 12 (plus 7 new) VEGA grants, all focused on closely specific topics of the basic research, and it plans to continue in the trend of renewing this types of grants also in the following five years. The institute management shall further create conditions for its researchers to apply for other projects within Slovakia and shall support also joint projects with several universities.

Similarly should the IH SAS proceed in the field of the international projects. In this connection, it shall focus mainly on bigger projects in the frame of HORIZON 2020, ESF, ERC, Visegrad Fund etc. and on the closer cooperation with foreign partner institutions.

The Institute should intensify its effort in order to bring the individual researchers to transform their research into published outputs and will support that part of them shall be published in foreign languages, especially in English.

During transformation of the research results into social practice, the IH SAS shall primarily focus on:

- scientific education of internal and external PhD students;
- participation of institute researchers on education process at universities and colleges; co-operation with them in preparing and publishing of university textbooks;
- popularization activity in all forms (with specific emphasis on popularizing publications and participation on prestigious encyclopedias); it shall continue in publishing popular-scientific magazine História: revue o dejinách spoločnosti (History: Revue on the History of Society).
- expert activities for state agencies and public institutions, consultancy activity for preparing exhibitions, films, etc.

In effort to improve service and information activities necessary for scientific research as well as for the public, in the following years will be essential:

- to continue in systematic building of institute's library and documentation section, to support its concept of co-operation with libraries in Slovakia and abroad;
- to continue in efficient co-operation, with possible extension, of the institute's library with international bibliographies and databases;
- to continue publishing bibliographic information on the institute's websites; to try to obtain finances for Internet publishing of Historický časopis (Historical Journal) since 1990;
- to strive continuously improve content and quality of all institute's websites;
- to look for the financial means for digitalizing the entire institute's historical documentation and other materials.

2. Personnel policy of the IH SAS will be implemented as a consensus between the demands of the scientific research and the institute possibilities. And of course, this policy more than other issues depends on institute's budget, the amount of which is not in the competence of its management.

The priorities of the IH SAS employment policy shall be:

- the sensitive and balanced generation interchange; this shall focus not only on young doctoral students but also on mature productive generation, too; in this connection the institute will be interested above all in employing the graduates of excellent universities from abroad
- the institute will use the scientific potential of senior researchers (above 60 years) for maintaining high scientific credibility of the IH SS and employ them within the part-time job.

3. The base for institute's finances create limited institutional sources allocated within SAS. In the following period the IH SAS shall therefore concentrate on more significant finance acquisitions outside the budget.
