Historiography of Post-World War II Victim-status Competition

The planned talk, Historiography of post-World War II victim-status competition, will follow the changes of the status and perception of victims and victimhood from the mid-19th century, up to the present, with an emphasis on important medical, social, cultural, and political changes especially after 1980. The focus of the presentation will be the changes of the memoro-politics of both the Holocaust and the Communist period in East and Central Europe. As a case study, the intend is to present the opportunities offered by the Blinken Open Society Archives, one of the largest Cold War and human rights archives in the world.
