How to Publish in International Journals and with International Publishers?

You are cordially invited to attend the upcoming Aperitív seminar in 2025, which will focus on the practical aspects of academic publishing, specifically the publication of scholarly papers and texts in international journals and with international publishers. Our experienced guests will share their personal insights into the entire publication process, from selecting the relevant journal or publisher to communicating with editors and reviewers and successfully managing the peer-review process. You will receive valuable advice and practical tips to help you publish your research abroad. This seminar is targeted at all employees of the Institute of History of the SAS who wish to pursue publishing opportunities on the global stage or who wish to gain a better understanding of the process of the international publishing.

We look forward to meeting you!
